Milan's Failure to Capture Bauman's Liner Costly to Griffmen in Interesting Struggle.

two to one, it is not necessarily assured of victory unless the element of luck is with it. This was proved in the case of the Griffmen yesterday, when after struggling along for eleven innings they were beaten by a single run, when the opposition should have been retired without a man having crossed the coveted goal.

Having outhit the Yankees, twelve hits to five, an easy victory seemed assured on several occasions, but something always happened to prevent it. When the blow-off came in the eleventh a scratch hit by Maisel paved the way for the victory. High, a left-handed hitter, had proved so easy for Harper that Bauman was sent in to bat for him.

He had two strikes on him when he got hold of a fast ball and sent it toward center field on a line. It looked like a certain catch for Milan, but the latter misjudged the speed at which the sphere was traveling and made a feeble attempt to catch it with his bare hand. Bauman got a double and two runs scored, and while the Griffmen scored a run which would have been sufficient to win the game but for Milan's failure to catch the liner, they had a chance for a couple of tallies and might have

Harper Very Effective.

Harper held the visitors to two hits in the first ten innings. He used exceptionally few balls to retire the side passes. He struck out seven and, altogether, pitched in a manner which of ten. It was not until the fourth inping that the visitors got anything that resembled a hit. Then High hit one a foot over his head for a single to left, and Cook shoved him up with a sacrifice. Baker hit a fly to center and Gedeon singled to center, sending High home with the first run. That advantage held good until the sixth, when the Griffmen tied the score. With one the Griffmen tied the score. With one out Foster tripled to right center and came home after two were out when Rondeau doubled ot center.

There was another chance for runs in the seventh, in which Henry hit for a base after one was down. McBride filed to center, and then Harper got a hit, but Moeller was not equal to the emergency and forced Harper at second. In the eighth Milan was passed and reached second on an out, but was left.

The next hope came in the ninth when Henry again singled after one was out and McBride hit into right for a base, Henry going to third. Harper poppep up a foul, however, and Moeller struck out, ending the round.

In the tenth Milan doubled with one out, but nothing came of it. In the first inning the locals got a double and a single, but this rather good hitting failed to net any runs. It happened this way. Moeller opened with a clean-cut two-bagger to right center. Foster fouled out to Nuna-maker and Milan bunted toward third maker and Milan bunted toward third base. When Rondeau hit a hard drive at Fisher the latter threw him out at first and Moeller then started for the plate, but Pipp's throw beat him there and a double play resulted.

After that failure in the tenth, the locals seemed destined to tie the score in the eleventh. Morgan started by drawing a pass. Henry hit to right and Morgan landed on second. McBride made a splendid sacrifice, and seemed to have the ball beaten at first, but the claim was not allowed. Williams, batting for Harper, hit to Peckinpaugh, and while Morgan was scoring Ainsmith, who was runing for Henry, was thrown out at third. That put it up to Moeller, but he flied out to center. Special Dispatch to The Star. CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 22 .-Wildness of the Virginia pitchers cou-pled with the inability of the Orange and Blue batters to solve the delivery of Garfield, the Yale boxman, in the pinches, gave the latter team a 7-tovictory. Rixey started for the Virginians, but was wild, was hit freely and retired after four runs had been garnered by Yale in three innings McCall relieved him and fared well un til the ninth, when the Yale batters

PITCHING AGAINST RAY FISHER

Yankees' Pitcher Is Hit Hard, but Always Manages to Win Over Griffith's Star Southpaw.

By J. ED GRILLO.

Harry Harper has yet to win a game from Ray Fisher, though he easily outpitched the Yankee twirler on both occasions he has faced

Over in New York last week the trouble was that Harper did not receive the support he was entitled to, and consequently lost a game which he should have won handily by a score of 3 to 1.

Fisher was hit safely six times and driven all over the lot, but had the luck of brilliant support behind him and held the Nationals hits meant runs. This clever little

Yesterday Harper again outpitched Fisher, more than two to Murray also pitched a good game, fanone, yet that lamentable ill luck which pursues him every time he ning twelve, and allowing but five hits, gets hooked up with Fisher again was prevalent and the locals were Linek. beaten in an eleven-inning struggle which should have been won by the Nationals. But bad luck has followed the Na- | all the earmarks of a triple, and to ionals in all of their games with the Yankees. In the tenth inning, for instance, after Milan had doubled and Rondeau put him on third with an out at first, Judge drove a short liner to center, but Maisel, with great speed, came in on a hard sprint and took the ball not more than an inch from the ground, making a remarkable catch, saved the game for his team at this juncture.

There were several other breaks which went against the locals.

Fritz Maisel is the only one of the pround and looks to be insined in the position, having a great throwing arm to help him out. Maisel is no longer a weak member in the outfield. He has developed decidedly fast in that position and now is playing it as well as most of the middle sackers in the major leagues.

True he has not been hitting with regularity since coming here, but he sneaked in a scratch Texas Leaguer in the eleventh which did much to make the Yankees' victory possible.

If the second guess is permissible it might have been good judgment to have allowed Harper to bat for himself in the eleventh inning, for there always is a chance of his getting a hit, he having gotten two in yesterday's game. Harper is by no means a weak hitter, and while Griffith figured to increase his chances by putting Williams in to hit for the southpaw there is no telling what Harper might have pulled off in that round to help the situation along.

Cook broke into the line-up of the Yankees yesterday because Magee and Cilhooley are suffering from tonsilitis. Cook was for several years the right fielder of the New York team, and while he always was a rather poor outfielder he awas a very fair hitter. Just to show how luck will break. Cook gave a long chase to Milan's liner at the opening of the fourth, which had-surprise of every one familiar with his failing as a fielder he pulled down the drive and probably saved the game for his team, for Milan probably would round. Murray fanned Linck, but Lee have scored if he was on third with Frank Baker continues in a batting slump. He has been up to the plate thirteen times in the three games here and on only three occasions has he reached first base. While Baker has sent out several long flies which have all been caught he has had nothing that resembled a base hit in any of the games. Therefore the batting average of the home run king has rapidly diminished, because at this season of the year the averages are not very substantial and the slightest kind of a slump pulls them down a great deal.

It was figured that Walter Johnson would be given a chance to make it three straight from the Yankees by letting him pitch Monday in the final game with the Donovanites, but this is not Manager Griffith's intention. He figures that Walter has not yet shown his best form, and he is allowing him to take a work-out every day in the hope of getting him in prime condition so that he can be relied upon to deliver the goods whenever he is asked to pitch.

Gallia, who has not yet started a game this season, is slated to do the twirling Monday, and he promises to bring home the bacon, for he is in the best possible form now.

Just which one of his pitchers Donovan will use remains to be seen, but it is most likely that he will send Markle, a left-hander, to the mound.

Fifteen Thousand Fans See Hard Fought Battle-Klepfer Goes Entire Route.

ST. LOUIS, April 22.-Fifteen thousand spectators saw an errorless fifteen-inning, 1-to-1 tie game played between St. Louis and Cleveland here today. Cleveland scored its run in the second inning on a single by Smith, Davenport's balk and two outs. The Browns tied the score in the ninth, when Sisler hit one that took a bad bound to Chapman. Marsans sacrificed, Pratt rolled o Gandil at first and was out, but Sisler scored the tying run, coming from second base on the out at first, a brilliant play, which saved the game for St. Louis.

Davenport for St. Louis and Klepfer for Cleveland were the original pitchers. Davenport was taken out in the eighth inning to let Clemons hit. Plank finished noon while administering a bit of a the game in brilliant style. Klepfer pitched the entire fifteen in-It was the second time the Mack- nings for Cleveland. The work > few. The Browns had a good chance to score in the seventh inning. Marsans had gone when Pratt singled hard to center. Ward Miller batted for Deal with two hands to come. Borton batting for Hartley, hit to Klepfer, and Pratt was trapped between third base and the plate. Crandall batted for Lavan. Miller had the plate stolen, but Crandall had two strikes and had to hit at the ball, which was over when Rube Oldring doubled after thompson and Strunk walked. Doubles by McInnis and Meyer yielded another in the fourth. The Red Sox scored two runs in the second, when Hoblitzell singled and Gardner got two bases when Strunk dropped his fly after a long run. Barry sent his two teammates ocer the plate when he doubled to left.

After the fracas "Bill" Carrigan said he was astonished at the splendid play of the Mackmen in the last two games.

When Rube Oldring doubled after walked. Doubles and for the third out. Cleveland did not have mach chance to score after the second inning. In the fourth inning Speaker singled with one down and Smith jammed a double against the right field fence. Tobin's fast fielding held Speaker on third. Gandil tapped a curve to Pratt, who held Speaker on third and made the score: play at first. Hartley threw Turner's schlaff to Sisler. Smith led the seventh with a single. Gandil laid down a bunt, but Sisler's sharp peg nipped Smith at second. There were Clevelanders on second and third with two out in the tenth when Plank curved the third strike over on O'Neill. These were the best chances the teams had to score and they were not very hopeful chances, either. The score:

LIKES BRAVES' OUTFIELD.

His Fielders Are Not Stars.

BOSTON, April 22.—George Stallings resents the idea that his outfield is not of champlonship caliber. He says it has been many years since Boston fans have seen such a trio of outer gardeners as he can present, and he mentions Wilhoit particularly as one who will star. Snodgrass, says the boss of the Braves, will play better ball this year than he ever did before, and he also expects much of Comp-

MILEAGE A BIG ITEM.

Eastern Magnates Cannot Appreciate "Jumps" of Western Teams. CHICAGO, April 22.—Base ball leagues in the west will read with interest the howls in the Eastern League over "mileage." Under the merger plan some of the teams have to travel as much as a hundred miles or so. Out west a ball team will make a 400-mile jump and think it easy. The greatest mileage in the East-
